

3M Graphics Instruction Bulletin Reorganization

The 3M Commercial Branding and Transportation Division (CBTD) has implemented a comprehensive review and reorganization of the instruction bulletins in the 3M Graphics Products portfolio. As such, all instruction bulletins published prior to this review have been rendered obsolete, as their material has been consolidated and incorporated into a smaller, more streamlined set of new instruction bulletins with updated technical guidance.

The entirety of the content in the bulletin previously available at this link has been superseded by two new instruction bulletins which users should reference for the most current technical guidance. Users may or may not need to reference both instruction bulletins depending on their current skill level and the type of installation they are performing.

For basic application instructions and information applicable to many kinds of graphic installation, see 3M Instruction Bulletin Application: General Installation Techniques.

For application instructions and information specific to wall installations, see 3M Instruction Bulletin Application: Walls.

For a complete list of all instruction bulletin changes, see the CBTD Graphics Instruction Bulletin Reorganization Technical Bulletin.
