Today, we’re building on more than 70 years of practices that support economic, social, and environmental sustainability. Our vision is simple: we want to help meet the needs of society today while respecting the ability of future generations to meet their needs.

Our Sustainability Principles and Objectives

We are guided by three strategic principles that make sustainability implicit.

Economic Success

We build lasting customer relationships by developing differentiated, practical, and ingenious solutions to their sustainability challenges.

Environmental Stewardship

We provide practical solutions and products to address our environmental challenges for ourselves and our customers.

Social Responsibility

We engage key stakeholders in dialogue and take action to improve our sustainability performance.

With these strategic principles as a framework, we’re vigorously pursuing our key sustainability objectives. Among them:

- Managing our environmental footprint
- Developing solutions that address environmental and social challenges for our customers and society
- Assuring our products are safe for their intended use through their entire lifecycle
- Assuring the appropriate management of any 3M health and safety issues that may touch customers, neighbors, and the public
- Maintaining a safe and healthy workplace
- Satisfying our customers with superior quality and value
- Providing a supportive, flexible work environment
- Supporting local needs and education in communities where 3M employees live and work
- Conducting our business with uncompromising honesty and integrity
- Engaging all employees around sustainability
- Providing an attractive return for investors

Sustainability at 3M grew from a commitment to both innovation and ethical conduct. By continuing to increase our sustainability performance at the economic, social, and environmental levels, we are building a strong vibrant company today while leaving a strong legacy for which future generations can build upon.
2015 Sustainability Goals

Setting goals to drive progress towards sustainability is nothing new at 3M.

3M has been setting environmental goals since 1990. These goals have helped 3M dramatically reduce its environmental footprint. In 2010, 3M developed its first set of Sustainability Goals. These Goals go beyond the environment and now include social responsibility and economic objectives. Continuing to improve our environmental performance remains a key component of our 2015 Sustainability Goals, but we’re going to do more.

Environmental Stewardship

- Reduce Greenhouse Gas Emissions 5% by 2011 from 2006 base year, indexed to net sales (Goal was set in 2007)

Solutions for Life

Sometimes the best way for us to make a difference is to make a great product.

Life cycle management is a formal part of 3M’s worldwide product introduction process. This means we ask important questions at the very beginning of the development of a new product, such as: How can we reduce the product’s impact on the environment? How will we distribute it? How will it ultimately be disposed of?

Since 2001, we’ve had a Life Cycle Management Policy in place that calls for all business units to conduct life cycle reviews for all new products and all existing products. With hundreds of new products introduced each year, we have a continuous flow of opportunities to improve the environmental, health, and safety effects of the things we make.

We make a measurable difference by minimizing our effects on the environment. And we increase that difference dramatically by making thousands of products that help consumers and businesses minimize their impact. We offer diverse solutions that help our customers in a broad range of industries address their environmental and energy challenges.

Staying in Touch

We have long recognized that dialogue and collaboration are crucial to innovation.

We’re a diverse company, producing thousands of products through operations in more than 65 countries. We’ve long recognized that dialogue and collaboration with our neighbors, shareholders, employees, and partners is crucial. Locally and at the global level, we’re reaching out and staying in touch.

Collaboration is an important part of our sustainability strategy. We team with a variety of organizations to gain a diverse set of viewpoints on sustainability, a better understanding of the positions of our stakeholders, and a mechanism to learn from the successes and failures of our peers.

Sharing time, talent, products & funds with 3M Communities

Giving of our time, money, and talent is an important part of our sustainability strategy. Our philanthropy includes cash gifts from 3M and the 3M Foundation, donated products, and volunteerism by employees and retired employees. In 2011, we contributed more than $65 million in cash and products to organizations serving our communities globally. In the United States (U.S.), our giving targets education, health and human services, arts and culture, and the environment. Subsidiaries outside the U.S. administer their giving programs to reflect the local culture and needs.

Many thousands of 3M employees and retirees around the world serve their communities through 25 3M-affiliated programs and other nonprofit groups. In 2011, more than 5,000 3M volunteers participated in 3M sponsored programs.
